1	Melinda does a good job of communicating how long tasks would take and asking clarifying questions to understand the intention/value behind asks on her time (so as to weigh whether they are worth the time). The Board also does a good job of asking how much time/resources a task would require; the process is very collaborative and we usually don't end up at a point of Melinda having to refuse a request.--Cheyne	1/23/2020 10:32 PM
